Action on the Rhine

French First Army machine gunners and riflemen hug the ground while firing at enemy positions on the French side of the Rhine river, as Germans frantically try to free the Allied Alsatian trap and cross into Germany. Directly across the river, Swiss flags mark that country's boundary.

Athens Smothers; 21 Killed in Violent Clash With Police

Leftist Party Foments Civil War; British Troops on Patrol

Athens, Dec. 4—(AP)—Gen. Catsotas, acting military governor of Athens, gave armed formations of the leftist Eam 72 hours notice today to quit the area as a consequence of Sunday's violent clashes.

Twenty-one persons were killed and 140 injured in the clashes with police yesterday. A general strike ordered by the Eam had the Greek capital in a tense grip today.

Numerous incidents developed into night-long shooting last night. The Elas, the armed formations of the Eam, seized two government police barracks at Piraeus, the port of Athens.

The streets of Piraeus were filled with striking dock workers armed with staves, knives, sticks and a few firearms. They were parading and shouting slogans.

Apparently unorganized formations had taken up positions in air raid trenches with machineguns and had posted themselves in other points of vantage.

A semi-private war between the Elas and Royalists bands raged in the Thesseum district of the capital.

Shooting Incessant

Elas besiegers worked their way over the top of Philoppos Hill back of the Thesseum, which is near the Acropolis, this morning. From this position they were firing down into the Thesseum quarter, which faced attack from three sides. The sound of rifle and machinegun fire could be heard almost continuously.

British troops surrounded and disarmed a column of 800 Elas marching on Athens from the Thebes district last night without a shot being fired, headquarters of Maj. Gen. R. M. Scobie, British commander in Greece, announced.

The first courtsmartial were put into operation today under newly proclaimed martial law.

Catsobas ordered the Elas who seized the Piraeus barracks to withdraw from the buildings or take the consequences.

British Troops on Duty

British troops in trucks were stationed at several strategic points in Piraeus.

The First British casualty was a Royal Navy enlisted man who was shot in the hip, while riding from barracks to naval headquarters in Piraeus.

Catsotas' order to the Elas to quit the Athens area of Attica province and the immediate surroundings, said any of the Eam's militia attempt to enter the Athens city zone would be "treated as enemies" after midnight Dec. 6.

Elas outside the specified boundary were ordered not to move.

Meanwhile Premier George Papandreou, whose efforts to bring about disarmament of the Eam precipitated the crisis, and several members of his cabinet conferred in the heavily guarded hotel Grande Bretagne.

Martial Law Declared

British-supported Premier Papandreou charged the Eam faction with deliberately fomenting civil war out of the struggle to disarm the Elas.

Martial law was declared in the city. British tanks and armed parachutists patrolled the streets. Greek and British planes circled low.

Athens was without electricity, gas or communications.

The radio was out and the gov-

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

The closer Europe gets to the end of the war, the more widespread and violent becomes the political upheaval—the struggle between the left and the right—of which the bloody weekend demonstration in Athens is symptamatic.

We shall do well to recognize that the war is ushering a new political and social epoch into Europe. The war isn't the cause of this historic turnover, but it's facilitating it vastly.

Little Greece of course is only one of many continental countries which are in the throes of this politico-social change. In greater or less degree we see it in Italy, Yugoslavia, Rumania, Bulgaria, Poland, Finland, France and Belgium.

We find it, too, hovering again over Spain in the form of a renewed challenge by the Republicans to the Franco regime which came to power through one of the most terrible civil wars of history. Hungary also is in the midst of internal strife which would be quite apparent to the outside world but for the fact that the Germans are using the country as a base from which to stand off the onrushing Red armies.

* * *

In several countries the question of a monarchy is involved and the way it looks from here several more crowns will be under glass cases in museums by the time Europe has passed this cataclysm. The monarchial form of government is under challenge in Greece, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Rumania, Italy and Belgium. It also is an issue in both Spain and Hungary, for Generalissimo Franco has been dallying with the idea of restor-

Washington Puzzle: Finding a Spot for Vice Pres. Wallace

Latin American Post Rumored for Ex-Secretary of Agriculture

(By The Associated Press)

Washington, Dec. 4 — Everybody, it seems, is trying to find a job for Henry Wallace, the latest suggestion being that he work out Latin American sore spots.

Some government quarters think the retiring vice-president is the ideal man to make it possible for us to improve relations bearing on imports of raw materials, particularly agricultural products.

Wallace speaks the Latin's language, it is argued, he received a warm reception from South Americans on a 1940 tour, and he knows agriculture from cucumbers to hybrid corn.

Underseas Hunters Bag 20 Nip Ships

Washington, Dec. 4—(AP)—American submarines have bagged 20 more Japanese ships, including a light cruiser and a destroyer.

Today's announcement by the Navy brought the overall total of Japanese ships sunk by United States underseas hunters to 874. Of that number 82 are warships. In addition 37, including 11 combatant ships, are listed as probably sunk.

The last previous report of submarine action was on November 25 when 27 enemy vessels were listed as destroyed, including two combatant ships.

The communique listed as sunk one light cruiser, one destroyer, 10 medium cargo vessels, one medium tanker, four medium cargo transports, three small cargo vessels.

A light cruiser usually is classed as one on which the main battery is of less than 8-inch caliber, most Japanese light cruisers mount 5.5 or 6.1 inch guns.

Collins to Ask Boost in Sales Tax to Pay Bonus to Illinois Veterans

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Senator Dennis J. Collins (R-DeKalb) said today he will ask the 1945 legislature to provide a state bonus for veterans of World War II by boosting the sales tax back to three per cent and freezing it at that level until the bonus is paid.

Collins said his plan provides for payments at the rate of $20 per month of service to foreign service veterans, with a minimum of $1,000, and at the rate of $15 to domestic service men and women, with a minimum of $500. About 800,000 Illinois are in the armed forces.

He said the state treasury's present revenue surplus of about $114,000,000 might not be enough to finance the bonus and accommodate other postwar use as well, and that the present two per cent retailers occupational (sales) tax therefore should be returned to three per cent as it was before 1941.

Collins said he had no assurances of Republican administration support for his plan, and that he had not talked with Governor Green, who last week told newsmen he was not prepared to give an answer to the question of a state soldier bonus.

The state floated a $55,000,000 bond issue to finance a World War I bonus. The last of these bonds are scheduled to be paid this month.

A proposal at the last session of the legislature to set aside 25 per cent of sales tax funds until July 1, 1945, in a soldier compensation fund was pigeon-holed almost unanimously by house Republicans whose leaders said a committee was studying the bonus question.

Superforts Raid Tokyo 4th Time

Fresh Ruin and Fire On Japanese Capital in Successful Mission

(By The Associated Press)

Saipan, Marianas islands, Dec 4—(AP)—Industrial Tokyo lay in fresh ruins and flames today in the wake of the fourth thunderous bombing raid—and the most succesful—by American Superfortresses based on Saipan.

A sizable force of B-29, striking in midafternoon yesterday, found the Tokyo area clearly outlined in sunlight and for an hour and a half unloaded their bombs with pinpoint accuracy, despite intense ackack and swarms of interceptors.

Results were good, said the 20th Air Force communique. One squadron reported 75 per cent of its bombs fell within the target area.

The prime objective was the Musashima engine factory of the extensive Nakajima aircraft plant, one of the empire's top producers of military planes. The plant, built compactly of one-story concrete structures, was the target of the initial B-29 raid there Nov. 24 when considerable damage was inflicted.

One Superfort Lost

Returning pilots from this fourth raid on Tokyo in 10 days described it as the toughest but the most successful. Anti-aircraft fire was more severe and fighter interception stronger and more persistent than previously, but the bombing was carried out through cloudless skies.

The last squadrons to reach the target found large fires raging, whipped by an unusually high wind.

One Superfort was acknowledged lost.

(A Japanese communique claimed that 14 Superforts were definitely shot down and seven more probably. It admitted six interceptors were lost, including several that assertedly made suicide crashes into the big raiders.

(Tokyo radio made its customary claim that damage was slight, but authorities ordered 12 more miles of fire breaks built in the Japanese capital.)

An undetermined number of enemy fighters were shot down by the heavily-gunned B-29s. The communique said the late formations over Tokyo knocked down four fighters for sure and probably eight others.

COMMANDERS WORRIED

By LEONARD MILLIMAN

Associated Press War Editor

Japanese munitions production, primary target of America's mighty Superfortresses, worried Premier Gen. Kuniaki Koiso today on the heels of the fourth and most successful blow against Tokyo's war industries by Saipan-based Superforts.

Allied commanders were troubled, too, by invading columns making their deepest penetration of China. The Japanese spearheads were less than 75 miles from strategic Kweiyang on the Burma road.

For an hour and a half yesterday afternoon a powerful formation of B-29s bombed the Nakajima aircraft company's great Musashima plant. Sections of the closely built factory were demolished and big fires started.

General Koiso conceded "the situation is critical," but his major concerns were the Philippines where storms still stalled ground action, and unsatisfactory munitions production.

Philippines Vital

The Philippines are vital, he said, and "it is necessary that the enemy be crushed completely and

U. S. Russian Attack Termed a Mistake

Rome, Dec. 4—(AP)—Fighter planes of the U. S. 15th Air Force attacked a Russian convoy in Yugoslavia early last month through an error in target identication the Mediterrmean Allied Air Force disclosed yesterday.

An offical statement said apologies had been sent to Moscow and to the commander of the Russian troops involved, but it did not reveal the results of the attack.

Yankee Escapes Death's Yawning Jaws in Pacific

Houston, Tex., Dec. 4—(AP)—Thirty American prisoners lined up at the rail of a Japanese ship, waiting to be shot.

They had been recaptured after an almost four-mile swim for liberty following the torpedoing of a Japanese prison ship off Zamboanga peninsula last Sept. 7.

The 30 were roped together and their hands were bound behind them. Then, the Japs began shooting them one by one—shooting them in the backs.

Twenty-nine of those bound and helpless and hopeless men were killed.

The other got away—just as death was closing in.

Today that man, 23-year-old Tech. Sgt. Denver R. Rose, home with his parents in Houston, told the story of his miraculous escape.

Veteran of Bataan and Corregidor and one of the thousand prisoners on the terrible "March of Death," Rose lost 70 pounds during his two and one-half years in a Japanese prison camp.

He weighed little more than 100 pounds when the enemy transferred him and other captives from one part of the Philippines to another.

"There were 750 of us crowded into a small ship," he relates. "When a torpedo hit us, many were caught below decks in the hold and never had a chance. The Japs turned machine guns on those who got into the water.

Three Hurt in Auto Accident Near Harmon

An automobile driven by Ralph Borholt, 27, of near Sterling, was totally demolished in an accident which occurred about midnight Saturday near the junction of the Harmon road and U. S. route 30. Mrs. Gertrude Tompkins, 44, of Rock Falls, was almost scalped and sustained deep cuts, being the worst injured of the trio of occupants of the car, according to state police who investigated the accident. Lavon Tompkins, 18, of Rock Falls and Norholt also suffered injuries and all were removed to a hospital in Sterling. State Officers McIntire and Kiner investigated the accident and had the badly wrecked car hauled to a Dixon garage. The machine, the officers stated, left the highway, ploughed through a fence and stopped in a field about 40 feet from the highway.

Philly Hears Case of The Exploding Gum

Philadelphia, Dec. 4—(AP)—Suburban township police called in the F. B. I. today in the case of the exploding chewing gum.

Glen Gloyd, 54, said a stick of gum exploded as he started to chew it yesterday, causing severe lacerations of the lips and contusions of the tongue and mouth.

Police sent the unused gum in the package, bought at a drug store several days agao, to the F. B. I. in Washington for analysis.

500 Theatergoers Escape Flames at Dixon Moviehouse

About 500 patrons of the Dixon theater left, hurriedly but in orderly manner Sunday afternoon about 3 o'clock when an explosion occurred in the projection room and the house was plunged in darkness except for the exit lights. About 100 of the patrons were children and none was injured in the hurried exit.

The feature film had just started showing when suddenly the screen was darkened and there were a series of yellowish puffs, the reflections of which could be seen from the small windows of the projection room. Almost immediately people started for the exits and within a very few minutes the house was completely emptied.

Traffic Detoured

At the time of the fire Officer Frank Tyne was at the postoffice corner and Patrolman Glessner was at the corner of First street. They immediately halted and detoured all traffic on Galena avenue to permit the theater goers to cross the street as the fire department arrived. Only chemicals were used in extinguishing the burning film, practically all of which was destroyed, with the exception of the feature film which was in the projection machine.

Walter Glenn, projection operator, left the booth through an emergency exit as soon as the first flash occurred. Later after the fire was extinguished, he returned to the booth, to investigate, but was taken to the Katherine Shaw Bethea hospital, where today he was reported to be suffering only from shock of the explosion.

House Closed for Time

The interior of the projection room, which is of fire proof construction, was blistered and is to be refinished, L. G. Rorer stated today that the damage to the projection machines had not been determined but indicated that aside from the loss of the films, the damage to the sound equipment was the greatest. Repairs are to be made at once. The theater will be closed for a few days and the management expects it will be

5 Rail Arteries In Reich Pounded

London, Dec. 4—(AP) — Five rail arteries feeding supplies to German frontlines were smashed today by 1,200 American heavy bombers, escorted deep into western Germany by more than 1,000 fighters.

Headquarters said railroad yards and adjacent industrial installations at Kassel, Mainz, Giessen, Oest and Bebra were the targets of the heavy attack by British-based Fortresses and Liberators of the U. S. Eighth Air Force.

First groups returning reported German fighters failed to molest the bomber formations. Heavy clouds obscured the target areas and bombing was by instrument.

Only one of the yards is on the Rhine that at Mainz. The others are far in the rear of German supply lines. The Soest rail facilities are seven miles southeast of Hamm, the Reich's largest railroad center which has been hit heavily by the Eighth in recent weeks.

Red Army Smashes Ahead Toward Goal of Austrian Border

Nazi Defenses Cracked Along Slovakian Line, Austrian Entry Nears

London, Dec. 4—(AP)—Russian troops smashed ahead in southwestern Hungary today to within 72 miles of the Austrian frontier and cracked strong nazi defenses along the Slovakian border with the capture of Miskole and Satoraljaujhely.

A German broadcast early today said a major Russian force had reached the area of Lake Balaton, which is 60 miles southwest of Budapest and at some points on the far shore only 45 miles from the Austrian border.

Miskole, a vital military supply center for German and Hungarian armies, fell yesterday to Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Second Ukranian Army, elements of which joined with Gen. Ivan Petrov's Fourth Ukranian Army in taking by storm the communications junction of Satoraljaujhely, 45 miles to the northeast. Miskolc is 85 miles from Budapest and was bitterly defended by the Germans for several weeks.

American losses for the month included 303 heavy bombers and 167 fighters, while the RAF lost 155 heavy bombers and 127 fighter aircraft.

Cuts Into Siegfried Defenses

First Army Advances in Fighting Along Roer; British Attack

Western Front

(By The Associated Press)

The western front today:

Canadian First Army — No news since last reported in Germany east of Nijmegen.

British Second Army —Breaks into suburbs of Venlo in reducing Germans' last Maase bridgehead.

U. S. Ninth Army—Battles in Linnich and Julich, stands on Roer between two towns.

U. S. First Army—Crosses Inde river, seizes town within four miles of Duren.

U. S. Third Army—Winning Saarlautern after surprise crossing of Saar; advances on Saarbrucken.

U. S. Seventh Army—Fights on edge of Haguenau, and in Selestat.

French First Army — Gains heights near important Vosges passes.

U. S. DIVISIONS

Fourth Armored (Third Army): Advanced mile northeast of Sarre Union.

Fifth Infantry (Third Army): Pushed to Reich border in two-mile gain southwest of Saarlautern.

26th Infantry (Third Army): Advanced two miles below Sarreguemines.

80th Infantry (Third Army): Reached town nine miles southwest of Saarbrucken.

90th Infantry (Third Army): Occupied Rehlinger, five miles northwest of Saarlautern.

95th Infantry (Third Army): Clearing last resistance in Saarlautern.

Paris, Dec. 4—(AP)—Third Army troops and tanks cleared all of Saarlautern west of the Snar river today and poured across the captured bridge under screaming shellfire from Siegfried Line guns to deepen their wedge into the section of the city east of the stream.

For 16 unbroken miles northwest to Merzig, the Americans stood on the west bank of the barrier river. Progress continued, it was said officially, but details were withheld.

The Germans reflected their rising alarm at the menace to the rich Saar arsenal with a succession of counterattacks. None was in great force and none won back an inch of the cratered battlefield. The reaction, however, underlined the likelihood that the Germans would lash out from their Siegfried Line defenses with the fullest force possible in an attempt to plug the Saarlautern gap. Siegfried Line artillery concentrated on the captured and intact bridge inside Saarlautern, second city of the Saarland.

The U. S. Ninth Army still battled for the sportground on the western outskirts of Julich, Roer river bastion guarding Cologne and cities of the Ruhr. No crossing of the river into the main part of the town has been reported officially.

First in Eifel Mountains

The First Army pushed into the northern spurs of the Eifel mountains southeast of captured Brandenberg toward Bergstein. Anti-aircraft gunners of the First were credited with destroying 38 and probably shooting down 16 more of the 120 German planes strafing their lines Sunday.

(German broadcasts acknowledged the loss of Selestat, important road center 25 miles southwest of Strasbourg. The enemy said Americans who captured Saare Union in Lorraine had been pushed out again.)

All along the line, the allies were fighting in either worsening weather or in weather which hardly could become worse. The Germans opened the dikes on the lower Rhine in Holland south of Arnhem, spreading floods in the Canadian sector which threatened to engulf the "island" between the Rhine and its tributary, the Waal.

Rains Become General

American fighter bombers flew through intermittent showers and icing conditions on the northern flank. In the south, rains were becoming general again and clouds hung heavily at tree top levels.

The British Second Army advanced almost a mile into the western suburbs of Venlo and completed mopping up the German bridgehead west of the Maas the Japs came up in small boats and caught 30 of us.

"They tied our hands behind us. They took us out to another prison ship. We were all roped together, all 30 of us, standing in a line along the rail. They started shooting us, one by one, and I was fourth in line.

"Using his sword, a Jap cut the rope to turn looose the first man in line. He was taken to the stern of the boat and shot in the back. He fell into the water. Then they cut loose the second man and took him back to be shot. I found the frayed end of a steel cable on the rail behind me. I rubbed the ropes across the sharp edges until I got my hands free. I still have the scars on my hands.

Breaks for Liberty

"I decided I'd just as soon be shot trying to get away as like a sitting duck so I made a break for it. I ran to the front end of the ship and slipped down into the anchor hole. I hid there about 20 minutes. They were searching the ship for me. I heard more shots.

"While the shooting was going on I let myself down into the water. I treaded water very softly, so as not to stir up the phosphorescence. Gradually I moved away from the ship and finally lit out for the shore".

He swam four miles to shore.

On reaching land, he joined 82 others who had escaped from the torpedoed ship. Natives took care of them for several weeks. Then they were picked up by U. S. naval forces.

the Philippines held secure." Greater munitions output, he told industrialists, is "most urgent of our national policies."

In China, invading armies drove 35 miles into Kweichow province where they were engaged today seven miles west of Tushan on the Kwangsi-Kweichow railway.

The column was obviously driving to cut the Burma road at Kweiyang, capital of Kweichow. From there they could strike in either direction at Kunming and Chungking, wartime capital of China.

In the Philipines, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced, his warplanes raked Japanese airfields and sank four ships and damaged 13 other surface-craft.

WIDE-RANGING STABS

General MacArthur's headquarters, Philippines, Dec. 4—(AP)—American airmen made wide-ranging stabs at enemy shipping and supply bases as Leyte islands' incessant storms limited ground activity to minor patrol clashes.

Fighter planes bombed Japanese supply bases at Valencia, about the middle of the Ormoc Corridor, down which the U. S. 32nd Division is driving.

Off the north coast of Borneo patrol planes sank two 1,000-ton freighters and probably sank another. In this area also Australia-based heavy bombers attacked an enemy convoy, sinking a 3,000-ton freighter with direct hits.

In the Samar sea light naval units attacked a 4,000-ton vessel off southern Mashate, inflicting some damage, and shot down one Japanese plane. Presumably the ship was attempting to land men or supplies or both on Leyte.

CHINESE WARFARE

Chungking, Dec. 4 — (AP) — Japanese troops have penetrated 35 miles inside Kweichow province and today were battling Chinese defenders seven miles west of Tushan, only 75 miles southeast of Kweiyang, strategic Burma Road town and capital of Kweichow.

Fighting in the Tushan area, the deepest penetration so far by enemy forces pushing along the Kwangsi-Kweichow railway was acknowledged last night by the Chinese high command.

Associated Press correspondent Clyde Farnsworth, writing from Kunming, said it was quite possible the Japanese aiming at least for Kweiyang would also strike for Kunming and Chungking in an attempt to offset the prospective opening of the Ledo-Burma Road from India.

He said the Americans may be forced to take extraordinary measures to save a tremendous military investment declaring the Japanese already had neutralized partly the value of the Ledo-Burma Road by their offensive in the southeast against Chinese troops who were ultimately to be equipped with material sent in over that supply line.

Whitehouse brought Geraldine youngest passenger ever to fly the north Atlantic route of the Air Transport Command, to this country last week.

At first, relatives said, Mrs. Whitehouse was not inclined to accept the child. "But when she saw the baby, she fell in love with it."

river in that corner of Holland. The nazis destroyed the Maas bridge last week, and the Tommies reached its ruined entrance today.

Other men of Marshal Montgomery's 21st Army Group encountered foot-deep floods in the Arnhem and Nijmegen area, opposite which the Canadian First army has entered Germany within gunshot of the northern end of the Siegfried Line at Kleve.

Americans of the First and Ninth Armies fought inside Julich and Linnich on the Roer river before Cologne and crept slowly and painfully toward the third bastion on that flooded stream, Duren.

Roer River Not Crossed

Four towns went down before those armies yesterday in one of history's most violent battles of attrition. These were Inden, a battleground for a week although it had but 100 ruined houses; Lucherberg, Luchem and Brandenberg. The armies stood on the Roer for 20 miles but at no place had that river, 20 miles from Cologne at Duren, been crossed.

Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army infantry fought deeper into venerable Saarlautern. Some of the Germans encountered beyond the Saar river in the eastern part of that city of 32,000 were members of the hastily mustered home guards, the Volksstrum.

The fortifications of the Siegfried Line are just beyond Saarlautern and the Saar river is like a moat protecting the pillboxes, tank traps and artillery emplacements.

The Germans had blown four other bridges spanning the Saar between Saarlautern and Merzig to the northwest.

Violent Battle

Patton was at the Saar on a 16 mile front. The battle was violent but the prize was immense. The Saar produces eight per cent of Germany's coal and 11 per cent of her iron and is the third major center of heavy industries in the reich, following the Ruhr and Silesia.

Patton's tanks and infantry continued attacks toward Saarbrucken, capital of the Saarland, and Sarreguemines on the frontier. The cities were eight and seven miles distant.

On his right flank, Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's Seventh Army fought in the southwest edge of the major Lorraine communications and supply base on Hagenau, 31 miles southwest of Karlsruhe. A column eight miles to the northwest had outflanked the city.

The Third Army bridgehead across the Saar in Saarlautern was solid and being expanded despite the heavy barrage laid down by the Siegfried Line artillery. The Bridge coup apparently caught the Germans off balance.

GREAT BATTLE IMPENDING

With the U. S. Ninth Army in Germany, Dec. 4 — (AP) — To American school children in the next 10 years the Roer river may become as well known as the Argonne forest.

There are strong indications that one of the great battles of American history is going to be fought along the banks of this comparatively unknown stream.

In two weeks of fighting the U. S. Ninth Army reached the west bank of the river and the U. S. First Army came within artillery range of it.

At present the great percentage of German armored strength in the west, and about one-third of the infantry strength, is concentrated in 19 miles centering on the Cologne plain, from Linnich in the north to below Duren in the south.

Losses Will Be Big

Since the total German strength from Switzerland through Holland is estimated at around 70 divisions this gives a rough idea of the wall of men and machines the German high command has thrown up to block the entrance to the Ruhr.

Jet - propelled reconnaisance planes raced across the front this morning seeking some clue to allied intentions. General Eisenhower has not tipped his next move, but to destroy the enemy you must destroy his armed strength, and the bulk of German armed strength is just across the Roer river, waiting for the Americans to come across, or perhaps planning an attack of their own.

It will be the bloodiest fighting yet seen on the western front, and allied losses in men and material are likely to be the highest of the war.

Balaton, in an 11-mile advance and seized Kaposmero, in the closest approach to Austria.

These forces also drove northward 5½ miles along the west bank of the Danube, capturing Dunafoldvar, 43 miles south of Budapest, in a push to take the Hungarian capital from the rear.

The sweeping gains of Tolbukhin's army engulfed more than 80 places in a steadily expanding front below Lake Balaton, guardian of strategic approaches to Austria, and won for him a 36-mile strangle hold on the Budapest-Zagreb-Trieste railway connecting German defenders of Budapest with nazi forces in Yugoslavia and northern Italy.

ing the throne, and Hungary never has abolished the monarchy but has been operating under a regency.

The Greek crisis had reached a nasty pitch today. Twenty-one people were dead and some 140 were injured as the result of week end demonstrations. The war-torn country also was in the grips of a general strike called by the left-wing National Liberation Front. Premier Papandreou declares that the leftist leaders are "leading the country to civil war."

The leftist demonstrations followed a British army proclamation disbanding the Greek guerrilla forces which include large numbers of leftists. Six ministers belonging to the National Liberation front, which opposed disbandment, resigned from Premier Papandrou's cabinet. The British government promptly announced its full support of the Greek government, but this didn't prevent the sanguinary affair in Athens.

This bloody clash would have had less significance in connection with the European trend had it represented an isolated instance, for the Greeks are fiery in their politics, but the past few days there have been similar outbursts. There has been street fighting between political groups in both Rome and Brussels, where the governments are having tough going in the face of the leftist opposition.

I think we can put all this down as just the beginning of the European political convulsion. The ending of the war will remove restraint in most of the countries and give full rein to the fight between the left and the right. The continent will indeed be lucky if it isn't the seat of widespread civil wars.

Mary's LISTENIN' POST

THIS column should be entitled WHY TEACHERS GET GRAY or else it might read DOCTORS AND NURSES—ATTENTION. This column is written in the spirit of amusement rather than in a spirit of criticism. The group who unwittingly furnished material for this bit of humor is in no way an inferior group nor are they superior—they are an average class of eighth graders in Lee County.

THE class was asked for a definition of the word "symptoms". They had been studying the word as it applied to the symptoms of sickness. One student wrote, "They are clues in case of a shock". The next door neighbor was at a loss to know the answer at all so his eyes "wandered" a bit and what he wrote was, "By symptoms is mint a clue when you are shot".

IF you are troubled with nose bleed here is the exact formula to follow to stop it—"Keep the paicent in a rittiong poison and put suntion cold on their fourhead". And that is not modern swing slang either!

SHOULD you have a wound which becomes infected—"Put micorome on it" and "Idion is one of the symptoms". A mind-reading druggist might interpret mercurochrome and iodine. Another "hopeful" added, "and bange it good".

THE danger of a puncture wound caused by stepping on a nail was discussed and when the question was put to the class they were asked about the dangers of a puncture wound. One answer suggested that "The danger of a punchard wound is the blood clodding in the brain" while another wanted "to make sure the tuses are not broke" and a third said "a pounger wound might harm the intesfortatuds in the body". Still another thought "the special dangers of puncher wone suvear bleading. And earnging of the inside as wall as the in side"

HERE is a short paragraph on shock as it had been taught in connection with the care in case of an accident—Shock is when a person is not concention which may be cause by fright or a over exciment of something. Some semptonpe are if they cool or have a slow pulse Shock some time causes death. In the care you should not get to a stage a hitting them. You should keep them warm and call a Dr. as soon as poissible".

ANOTHER paragraph on the same subject read, "The cause of shock is freighten and you are worried. Don't let the person see how your are hurt or tell them what is worng. To cure shock is when your hurt don't let it bother your or anyone who wants to know how you are hurt".

ON another paper the pupil suggested that, "To prevent shocks you should have vitmins and good food", and the reason for shock was that "the sereulation stops in your body". Still another said that the treatment for shock was "to keep your hand over his mouth".

ONE more paragraph on shock said, "Shock is caused by telling a person how bad he is. by leaving him see the blood, and even when they are taken to the house pittle in a amalence. Frightness causes schock. And the way to prevent this is to keep the patient coom and tell them that there wone isn't very bad if it is or not. Don't liave them think about there woone, talk of sumthing different".

NOW if you couldn't read this column today remember that the teacher probably couldn't either. The next time that Johnnie or Mary comes home with a poor report card maybe it would be just as well to investigate and see where the hsortcoming are. Maybe in some cases, if a little bit of the "leisure time" that some of these young folks think hangs heavy on their hands was put to school work there would be less failures and teachers would have less gray hairs.

ernment was unable to communicate with the people.

The strike had been threatened earlier by the left wing Eam after Greek police forces fired yesterday on the crowds of Eam demonstrators.

The only remaining left-wing representative in the cabinet, Undersecretary of War Ptolemy Sariyannis, resigned.

British Patrol Streets

After Sunday morning's shooting, British armored cars and tanks patrolled the streets while Greek air force and RAF warplanes circled low over the city.

Although no British troops fired on the demonstrators, an increasing coolness toward the British was noticeable among left-wing supporters.

Leaflets were distributed among British soldiers urging them to disobey the orders of Maj. Gen. R. M. Scobie, a British commander in Greece.

Scobie posted an announcement throughout the city which said, "I reiterate that with the vast majority of Greeks I stand firmly behind the constitutional government and shall aid them to the limit of my resources until the Greek state can be reestablished with lawful armed force behind it, and free elections held."

Demonstrators paraded the British soldiers: Let us choose our own government."

Large crowds massed outside the American embassy crying, "Long Live Roosevelt."

Faye Emerson and President's Son Are Wed Sunday

Grand Canyon, Ariz., Dec. 4—(AP)—Col. Elliott Roosevelt, the president's second son, and actress Faye Emerson were honeymooning in the Grand Canyon region today following their marriage yesterday on a snow-swept height overlooking the famed chasm.

The couple was married in an observation station on Yavapai Point by the Rev. Roger Sawyer, pastor of a Williams, Ariz., Methodist church. Only a handful of friends watched the eight-minute, double-ring ceremony. Several others were prevented from attending by a premature winter blizzard that hit the resort area.

Asked why the unusual setting was chosen for the event the bride explained, "our marriage means so much to us both that we wanted to begin it as beautifully as possible".

The newest member of the White House family wore a blue doeskin suit, a mink bandeau with matching coat and muff and alligator shoes and carried a cluster of white orchids at the ceremony.

Other members of the bridal party included Ruth Chandler Roosevelt, 10-year-old daughter of Col. Roosevelt by a previous marriage, maid of honor, and Jack Frye, president of Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., best man.

After posing for photographers and attending a lengthy wedding breakfast, the bride and groom said they would honeymoon "for about a week" in the Grand Canyon area. In Beaumont, Tex., Miss Emerson's mother, Mrs. Jean Young, said the couple would return to Hollywood soon and after a few days there will go east stopping at Beaumont on the way.

The Roosevelts' eastern tour may include a White House visit. The actress has never met her famous in-laws. When he returns to duty with an air forces photographic group, she intends to return to Warner Brothers studios to resume her screen commitments.

It was the third marriage for Col. Roosevelt. He was divorced from Elizabeth Donner Roosevelt, by whom he had a son, and Ruth Goggins Roosevelt, mother of three of his children.

The vivacious, blond actress was divorced from William Wallace Crawford, Jr., in 1942 and has a son, William III, 5. She has been in the movies since 1941, when she was discovered by a talent scout in a little theater in San Diego, Calif.

Red Cross News

Families and friends of newly captured American prisoners of war in Germany can write to them immediately upon notification of their imprisonment.

Under a new plan announced by the Army provost marshal general, mail will now be forwarded through the International Red Cross in Switzerland. Previously mail could not be accepted by the postoffice for prisoners until their permanent prison camp addresses were received. This usually was two or three months after the notification of capture.

Letters now can be sent as soon as a man is reported prisoner, provided that they contain the full name and address of the prisoner identifying him as a United States prisoner of war in Germany, and are sent in care of the International Red Cross directory service, Geneva, Switzerland.

Packages cannot be sent until notification of the prisoner's permanent location is received. Official prisoner of war package mailing labels will then be supplied by the provost marshal's office allowing one parcel to be sent every two months.

The local Red Cross chapter, located in the Nachusa hotel, will be pleased to assist next of kin in selecting and packaging the contents of these parcels.

Mrs. Blewfield Is Speaker at D. A. R. Meeting Saturday

The Dixon chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held its December meeting Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George W. Lindquist.

The regent, Mrs. Grover W. Gehant, presided at the business meeting, after which Mrs. Floyd Blewfield gave the afternoon's program. This was especially appropriate for the Christmas season being "An Interpretation of the Story of the Nativity."

Beginning with the old Hebrew prophecies of the coming of the Messiah, Mrs. Blewfield followed the Biblical story through the birth of Christ and the flight into Egypt. She then gave brief verses as an epilog.

During the social hour that followed, Mrs. Forrest Trautwein poured at the tea table with its Christmas centerpiece of southern pine and pine cones. Assistaing Mrs. Lindquist as hostesses were Mrs. W. F. Bovey, Mrs. Collins Dysart, Mrs. W. H. Coppins and Mrs Claude Horton.

A Thought for Today

But the children of Israel walked upon dry land in the midst of the sea: and the waters were a wall unto them on their right hand, and on their left.—Exodus 14:29.

The water owns a power Divine,
And conscious blushes into wine;
It's very nature changed displays
The power Divine that it obeys.

Pleasant Trip

Our generals have assured us that there is a shortage of shells on the war fronts. Correspondents have passed along the G. I.'s assurance that there is a cigaret shortage. Now some of our elected representative, members of the House Military Affairs Committee, have gone to Europe to look into these shortages. Perhaps they want to make them official.

Said one: "If there is a shell shortage . . . there is absolutely no excuse for it. The blame can be laid on the doorstep of these labor barons who have condoned strikes in wartime."

Said another: "We have to be certain if there is a shortage. We have been unable to do so yet. We have not yet seen General Eisenhower."

If there is a shell shortage, the cause and cure are very likely in this country. If there is an overseas black market in cigarets, the military undoubtedly knows about it and can do as much about it as a congressional committee.

Sometimes we suspect that this group of legislators was mainly hankering for a trip to Europe, expenses paid.

Pin-Ups

Eleanor Packard of the United Press has been expelled from Yugoslavia. The reason, she says, is that she remarked in a dispatch upon the numerous pictures of Marshals Tito and Stalin in Belgrade shop windows, and the absence of pictures of Messrs. Roosevelt and Churchill.

The pin-up boy, it seems, has entered the hazardous territory of international relations.

Secret Weapon

"All the Japanese have to do in future operations is to project their indomitable spirits at the enemy and they will suffer internal fear that will defeat them before they get into the fight."—Tokyo broadcast.

Undoubtedly Nippon will never again make the mistake of hauling these indomitable spirits part way on warships and letting them try to do their projecting at close range.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

Washington, People here generally say Roosevelt deserves respect for his courage in standing firm upon his Little Steel wage freezing formula against the CIO unions so soon after his election victory in which CIO loudly participated (and with cash.)

His decision was part of the deal by which James Byrnes remained in the right wing of the White House to run war economics until victory in Europe.

Breakage of the wage-freezing formula would have frustrated all Byrnes' efforts to hold economics within the inflationary line, and he would have left the government had it been broken in such a way as to invite a general rising level of wages now.

This inside of the matter naturally was not made public, nor was any genuine thorough understanding of exactly what the government did give the unions.

Within the decision was the core of a new policy to increase wages rates, industry by industry, gradually over a period of months, without formally abandoning the current economic front, or even confessing fully what is to be done. The wage freeze is thus to be thawed in spots without breaking the ice.

After steel will come textiles, which really has a better case for a wage increase than steel, automobiles, rubber, etc.

Frankly, the government was caught in a rather desperate predicament on this thing. The unions could not be stalled off much longer. They presented a fair case for some kind of increase, based on price advances, although they did not expect to get as much as they asked (17 cents an hour.)

On the other hand, every dollar given them complicates the inflationary problem which already is more critical than anyone here will admit (the shortage of goods continuously forcing prices up through government ceilings as can be seen, for example, in the $20-a-cord local price for inferior wood that brought $4 a cord before the war.)

Every additional dollar in circulation will encourage payment of higher prices, black markets, under-the-counter dealing and every device to defeat the governments war purpose of holding the line.

The administration took the same way out it used on former occasions. The Labor Board ordered reclassification of workers to increase their pay without changing the scale, vacations with pay, shift preferentials, etc.

By the device of reclassification alone it could grant nearly any wage increase desired, especially to the least skilled, lower grade workers.

I know of one company which had the money and wanted to raise wages 10 cents an hour, but was refused permission under the wage freezing order. That company went through its employe list, group by group, reclassifying grade C workers as grade B, and so on, until it had upgraded ingraded and redepartmentalized everyone and given them the 10 cent increase, it was all within the law, and the basic wage rate was not changed.

How much the steel men will get, nobody knows. Published accounts of the decision said 5 to 7 cents, but this is a Washington estimate. The steel companies themselves do not know.

Days afterward, their economists had not even worked out a probable cost, because many of the concessions in relation to vacations, etc., were left to future negotiation between the companies and the unions.

I judge the union did not fare badly, as CIO President Phil Murray praised the decision.

What we do know now clearly, however, is that the unions have found out what the game is here. They know now how to get their increases, and are pressing along that line.

One other thing we know. This is the nation's fight against economic destruction which, if lost, would be as costly as defeat on the battlefield. We can be defeated in it, even if we stick to the Little Steel formula and never change it, solely by circulating more and more money through wage increase devices to evade it.

In general, authorities here think they have compromised the situation very well thus far, but everyone recognizes the danger on that front.

Fair Enough

by

WESTBROOK PEGLER

(Copyright, 1944, By King Features Syndicate)

New York—It was bad enough when Charlie Dissenat's old lady moves in to help him manage the ball-club and brings in Professor Weenie from Harvard and Boris Pantzoff, the Bulgarian economist, and the study jerks from the thinking academy, but the next year it was even worse.

That was the year old Weenie said no more yellow dog contracts between the front office and the individual players and hereafter we got collective bargaining and so there is just one contract for all of us. Weenie and the jerks and the female race they got up a meeting and voted to elect him for our bargaining agent, and, although, of course, all the regular ball-players, we all voted against the idea, why they all yelled "majority rules in democracy" so we couldn't do nothing about it.

So, instead of getting a contract in the mail along about Christmas, and I figured I was due for a little raise because, after all, I tried real hard the year before, well, instead I just got a notice from Weenie and it turns out I am cut $2,000 a year and everybody gets the same salary, including the jerks and the feminine sex. The female first baseman from Smith's College gets the same as me and it don't make no difference whether you hit .340 or you didn't get a stinking little foul all year the year before, it's democracy and nobody gets any more than the next guy. Wally Didden was high in his prime then and with any regular kind of club he would have won at least 25 games with an earned run record of something like practically nothing at all, but he gets just the same as the jerks.

We were practically crazy, anyway, by then, but when Weenie told us the bads news by mail a few of us got together in Hot Springs to stud out the new working conditions in the collective bargaining and nobody got sober until the first of February.

In the collective bargaining it says that hereafter runs are not going to be called runs any more because runs sound like the speed-up system, so hereafter we are going to call them walks. And no more doubles, triples or home runs because that way you kill the job for the next hitter and, anyway, it isn't fair to the weak hitters.

"Please observe that it is against the union rules to take more than one base on any hit", Weenie wrote in his form-letter, "and anyone who does so will be tried on charge of un-union-like conduct and fined $500 for the first offense. Repeated violations will be cause for expulsion from the union and dismissal from the job. The pernicious practise of stretching hits represents the exploitation of the masses by the bosses and makes the weak hitters look bad. It is our aim to establish firm standards and create jobs for as many as possible and hereafter when a player has got two hits in one game he will be taken out of the line-up to guard against over-production.

"Remember, the home run is an invention of the bosses to set the working masses against each other and cause jealousy and undermine our solidarity".

Mrs. Dissenat was already at the camp when we showed up for spring training and all the female sex from all the different groups and Weenie and Boris and the jerks were holding discussions about how to bring more democracy into baseball so the punks can have an equal chance.

"Some of us", the old lady said, "are blessed with greater ability than others so we must guard against inequality and provide justice for all. If Mr. Deezanose, here, hits a home run he gets credit for four bases while some less fortunate player is unable to strike the baseball with the bat at all, even though he tries just as hard".

"But Madam", I said, "what about the question of intent, because last year when old Weenie was umpiring our games he used to often give one of the jerks credit for a home run if the jerk notified him beforehand that it was his intent to hit a home run even if he didn't get the stick off his shoulder. Don't you remember, when some jerk would go down on three called strikes, Weenie would yell 'home run' because he intended to hit one over the right field wall and so stated in writing when he came to the plate?"

"Yes" Mrs. Dissenat said, "but that was last year and if one does not progress one goes backward because life is dynamic and so this year we will still give credit for intent but only for singles. If one of the study jerks, as I think you call them, or one of the members of the female race, declares intent to single over second and strikes out, intent will govern as usual. And don't forget the taffy pull and discussion hour tonight under the auspices of the World Council for Democratic Cooperation and Racial and Economic Equality at the headquarters of the Society for the Promotion of Better Understanding".

I don't know whether you can actually put yourself in our place because we were all baseball men for years and then poor old Mike died, may he rest in peace, and the front office hires Charlie Dissenat and then the old lady horns in with Weenie and Boris and the jerks and all. After that we didn't even know our way to first base, because she turned it around and if you were a right hander you could run to third and that was first. And now, instead of trying as hard as you can, you have to play as bad as you can so the employers won't make too much dough off your efforts and the bums get the same pay as another Ruth or DiMaggio.

"It works in the factories" Weenie said, "and we have got to make it work here in our wonderful national game. And we will make it work, although it may be necessary to get rid of some reactionary rat, scab, finks who do not have enough social consciousness and democracy in their greedy, un-American black fascist hearts".

Like I tell everybody, I don't tell any man how to handle their old lady but I will say if it was me and my war department started messing around in my ball-club I would paste her one right square in the snoot at home plate in the seventh inning stretch of the Fourth of July.

YOU GOTTA THINK QUICK

By Stanley Paley

Copyright, 1944, NEA Service, Inc.

XXXI

THE three days that followed were about the happiest in my life even though I knew I was going to have to start my career from scratch. If I continued practicing law it would be on an entirely new basis. The hard way! But a tremendous thing had happened to me. I was no longer alone. From now on Mickey was on my side and that made all the difference in the world.

Meanwhile Boggio was to receive back every penny he'd ever given me. It would take time, but I was determined not to owe him anything.

As down payment on my freedom I mailed him a check which stripped me of all the cash I had excepting a few hundred dollars I needed to get back on my feet. I still had a few months to go on the lease of my office, so I couldn't cut down expenses there. But I also had about ten weeks left at the Towers for I'd paid half a year's rent in advance.

So what did I have to worry about? The paper Boggio had made me sign years ago? That bogey was dead. I knew now he'd never be so dumb as to use a confession coerced from a 16-year-old boy. It would be too compromising for him. As to the contract I'd signed more recently, I was in effect legally buying my way out of it.

Furthermore I'd taken care of another eventuality. After receiving my check Boggio had called me up and again pleaded with me to reconsider my decision. When I remained adamant he had become unpleasantly threatening. That hadn't worried me. I'd played my trump card.

"Virgil, we're all mortal and I realize I might become involved in a fatal accident some day. That would be a tough break for both of us. Because if I should die before you do there's a long, long letter that'll automatically be mailed to the F. B. I."

I didn't even have a chance to say goodby for he'd hung up on me.

There only remained the problem of Don to be solved, for the easy money was still proving a terrific temptation. Without going into details I'd told him what kind of a man Boggio was. It hadn't helped. Don was playing with matches but his fingers hadn't been burned yet.

ON that third day I was in my office, winding up the work on Boggio's books so that my successor, whoever he might be, would find everything in order. The phone rang.

"Kabateck?"

"Yes. Who is it?"

"Perez. I've flown in to take care of this new situation out here. I think you're being very foolish, Kabateck."

"I'm not interested in what you think."

"Mr. Boggio seems to be quite upset."

"That's too bad. Maybe you'll be able to calm him down."

"You won't change your mind then?"

"No."

"That's final?"

"It's final."

There was a short pause and then Perez spoke up again.

"How do the books stand?"

"I'm working on them now. I'll be through in a few hours and I'll send them over to Boggio's first thing in the morning."

"That won't do. He wants to see them tonight."

"Look, Perez, you can understand that I don't feel like taking them over myself and I've let my secretary go."

"All right. I'll come for them. What time will you be through?"

"About 6:30."

"I'll be there."

THE ledgers were ready when Perez sauntered in at the appointed time. I think I liked him even less than the first time we'd met. He sat down on the edge of the desk.

"Still determined to back out?"

"Stop wasting your time, Perez, and let's get this over with. I've got a dinner date." I shoved the ledgers over to him. "That's all there is, Boggio has the rest."

He fingered the volumes for a moment, then got off the desk and walked slowly around the office.

"Nice place you got here, Kabateck."

I was getting impatient.

"Anything else?"

He had stopped in front of an etching and was admiring it. I began drumming my fingers on the desk but he didn't take the hint. From the etching he walked over to the shelf where I kept some legal books.

"I forgot to tell you," he said, "Mr. Boggio mentioned these, too. He wants me to bring them over."

Perez was so deliberate in his movements that I felt like kicking him. I helped him remove the books from the shelf and we piled them on the desk.

"I have Mr. Boggio's car out front," he said. "You'd better give me a hand."

"Okay."

It was already dark outside, and Boggio's hearse-like vehicle was parked about three blocks down, on a side street.

"By you 'out front' means in the next county," I wisecracked as we walked toward it.

Pausing to catch his breath, Perez didn't answer. Then, when we reached it, he got into the rear of the car, dumped his books on the spacious floor and turned to take those I was carrying. The next instant something hard was shoved in the small of my back and a voice snapped, "Get in!" Simultaneously, Perez, having dropped the second batch of books, put his hand over my mouth and jerked me forward by my tie. As I went sprawling into the rear seat, the man behind me also jumped in and slammed the door. The motor sprang into life and the car lurched forward.

BAD WEEK:

Our predictin' average slumped a little over the weekend when we missed three of eight forecasts. Nevertheless, we picked Army over Navy, although failing on Great Lakes-Notre Dame, Texas Christian-Southern Methodist and Tulane-Louisiana State.

With all returns in, our season's scoreboard reads: 107 right, 34 wrong, for a .759 percentage. Our next forecastin' attempt will be the Bowl contests Jan. 1.

P. A. T. DEPT.:

That all-important point-after-touchdown really got the works this year!

Several stars became noted for gifted toes. And one of 'em was a northern Illinois boy.

The local lad was Eugene Schaller, Rochelle center. Schaller booted 21 of 26 conversion attempts, establishing a season record for the state.

Speculation was rife, also that Schaller had set an all-time mark. But along came Pat Harmon, Champaign prep expert, to blast that theory.

Harmon pointed out that several past performers compiled better records, revealing that the record, as far as he could determine, belonged to Merle Ririe, Gridley gridster, who kicked 26 successive points without a miss in 1921. However, Harmon did admit that Schaller's claim to the '44 title was valid.

On the collegiate front, Dick Walterhouse, Army specialist, erased all previous figures by converting 45 of 57 attempts. Navy also had a fine booter—Vic Finos.

The Big Ten's ace p. a. t. operative was Joe Ponsetto, Michigan quarterback. There were a host of others, too, proving that the single point has finally come into its own.

UNHAPPY HUNTER:

One of our Rockford "spies" tipped us off on this one:

Seems one of the city's numerous war workers was down in the dumps because he was minus a gun and that ol' huntin' urge was fast becoming serious.

So, he began to watch the newspaper ads. And in the meantime, he inquired amongst his fellow workers. Finally a friend tipped him off to a lucrative-sounding advertisement.

But our hunting enthusiast shrugged it off with a "Oh, they'll want a million for it" reply and decided to try a hock shop.

A few days later he happened to drop around to a friend's hom While he was there the friend produced a Remington pump gun "Gee, I've been looking for one of those things all year", our sportsman sighed. "Where didja get it?"

Then it unfolded. The friend had noticed the ad, deciding to give it a whirl. After a few moments' bargaining he closed the deal at a modest price.

The real tale was yet to come however: two CASES of shells went with the pumper (that's what we said, cases, spelled c-a-s-e-s).

When the last remark soaked in, our sportsman emitted one "unbelievable" groan and pulled a Frankie Sinatra swoon. Can you blame him, folks?

CAGE CARRY-OVER:

Mendota's Trojan basketball outfit copped its initial win of the year Friday eve, outpointing LaMoille, 45-20. Big Bill Herrler topped the scoring column with 17 points.

In another pair of games played Friday evening, Princeton bowed to Moline, 34-28, and Hall Township received a 47-25 lacing at the hands of LaSalle-Peru.

The Tigers, outscored 12-3 in the opening quarter, packed a strong finish, pulling up to a five-point deficit at one point. In addition, Forward Jack Eakle, Princeton's offensive mainstay, committed his fourth disdemeanor in the second stanza, handicapping him the remainder of the fray.

Coach Richard Nesti's Hall Redmen were never "in" the battle with a bigger, superior LaSalle Cavalier five. Highlight of the evening, however, was a light failure of some three minutes as the game waxed hot.

Saturday night, East Rockford trounced Maine Township of Des Plaines, 63-36; West Rockford's Warriors edged Madison West, 45-40; Decatur trimmed Morton (Cicero), 51-41; Joliet squeezed past Blue Island, 28-20; Elgin's Maroons whipped Proviso, 43-35; and Dundee crushed St. Thomas of Rockford, 67-21.

Army Chalks Up Ninth Win; Ends Undefeated Year by Beating Navy

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 4—(AP)—Except for a few scattered games which will prove nothing, the 1944 intercollegiate football season is at an end, but it is going to be a mighty long time before the fans stop talking about the great Army eleven that closed out its first perfect season since 1916 with a 23-7 victory over Navy.

In chalking up their ninth straight victory and assurance as the football team of the year, the Cadets gave the impression that they had control of the game from the time they took a 7-0 lead in the second period until they rolled across for two more in the final quarter to turn the game into a rout.

There is no doubt Navy suffered when Bob Jenkins, hard-hitting fullback, was injured on the third play of the game, and Don Whitmire, All-America tackle candidate, limped off the field late in the second quarter. But even if both Middie aces had seen full time service, it is doubtful there would have been any material difference in the final score.

35 Pass Interceptions

Jenkins got back into action in the fourth period in time to have a pass intercepted by Glenn Davis, one of the five Navy aerials pulled in by the future generals as they ran their total pass interceptions for the season to 35. Davis grabbed the ball on his 32 and from there Army marched for the touchdown that took the game out of the danger class.

One of the other Army interceptions, this one by Herschel Fuson, center, set the stage for Army's first touchdown scored by Dale Hall from 24 yards out. Davis and Felix Blanchard, a pile-driving back all day, teamed for the second score with the latter going over from the nine yard line and Davis went 50 yards for the third on a lataeral.

In the third period the Middies marched 79 yards, largely on the passes of little Hal Hamberg, with Clyde Scott culminating the drive from the one yard stripe.

Illini Cagers Win 1st Battle

Chicago, Dec. 4—(AP)—Ohio State, defending champion, and Iowa, last year's co-runnerup, swing into their practice games this week as the western conference basketball season approaches, and the two may provide a tip-off on events to come.

But Coach Doug Mills' University of Illinois cagers—the "show me" boys of the circuit—have a pair of dates that may have a lot more definite conclusions for the prognosticators to digest.

The Illini, with several veterans and a crop of promising freshmen, meet the Bluejackets of Great Lakes twice in what probably is the stiffest pre-season test of any conference quintet. They play Friday night in Chicago Stadium and then meet in a return match at Great Lakes Saturday.

While pre-season guesses have Iowa and Ohio State pegged as probable titlists, the Illini loom as a very definite threat to the title aspirations of any team in the conference. They dumped Chanute Field, 65124 Saturday as Mills used every man in uniform.

Wisconsin, another dark horse, also had little trouble in its first game. The Badgers, also with some veterans and a good freshman aggregation, romped over Lawrence College, 48-22.

Three other conference teams also met non-league foes last weekend. Michigan beat Western Michigan, 46-34.

Minnesota's Gophers, who meet the Iowa Seahawks at Minneapolis Saturday, had little trouble with South Dakota last Saturday, winning 50-28. Indiana handed Camp Atterbury a 44-22 beating.

Iowa opens its season against Iowa State at Iowa City Friday night and Ohio State entertains Michigan State at Columbus Friday in the two games that may be a yardstick for pre-season prognosticators.

Service Elevens Booked for Tilt

New York, Dec. 4—(AP)—Randolph Field and the Second Air Force claimed the most attention in football circles today, although Monday quarterbacks were rehashing the Army-Navy game and what might have happened if—.

The announcement over the weekend that these two powerful service elevens would meet at the Polo Grounds December 16 in a "Treasury Bond Bowl" game focused the spotlight on their games next Sunday at Los Angeles and Atlanta.

Unbeaten and untied Randolph Field, ranked as the No. 1 service team in the United States, tangles with the Fourth Air Force (March Field) at L. A. while the Superbombers, beaten only twice in 13 games, take the field against the Third Air Force down in Georgia.

Their Polo Grounds clash, arranged by the Sixth War Loan sports committee, is expected to net approximately $80,000,000 in bond sales against the $58,637,000 realized by the Army-Navy struggle at Baltimore. Admission will be through the purchase of war bonds plus payment of $2 for Army relief purposes.

Apart from Army's 23-7 victory over Navy, Notre Dame, Louisiana State and Southern Methodist featured the final games of the 1944 campaign on Saturday.

The Irish walloped Great Lakes for the first time in history, 28-7; Louisiana State upset Tulane 25-6, while SMU stunned the southwest by beating the newly crowned titleholders, Texas Christian 9-6.

MONTREAL BEATS CHICAGO; REGAINS RINK MARGIN

(By The Associated Press)

Montreal Canadiens were back on top of the National Hockey league by a single point after turning on third-period heat to down a determined Blackhawk team 2-1 at Chicago last night.

Meanwhile the Toronto Maple Leafs, after a 24-hour tenure of first place gained by a 4-3 Saturday triumph over the New York Rangers, lost to the Boston Bruins, 5-4.

Maurice (The Comet) Richard set the Canadien offensive in motion by scoring in the first 25 seconds of the third period. Pete Horeck tied it up less than three minutes later, aided by Joe Cooper and Bill Mosienko. But continued Montreal pressure paid off at 15:54 when Fern Gautheir fired game-winning shot on a play with Buddy O'Connor and Dutch Hiller.

SINKE LEADS KEGLERS IN ALL-STAR TITLE TOURNEY

Chicago, Dec. 4—(AP)—The east, the midwest and the far west vied for top honors today as the fourth annual all-star match game bowling tournament swung into the second half of the preliminary stage with 125 entrants battling for a national title.

Joe Sinke of Chicago took over the lead early today as the second round of firing ended. He had a total of 2,445 for 12 games. His total in the fight for the $2,000 top prize was but five pins ahead of Andy Varipapa of Hempstead, N. Y., who had 2,440.

Behind the two leaders—and too close behind for comfort—were the following: John Crimmins, Detroit, 2,422; John Small, Chicago, 2,421; Pvt. Joe Wilman, Ft. Lewis, Wash., and a native of Chicago, 2,407; Ed Brosius, Chicago, 2,404; Herb Freitag, Chicago, and Norman Ashley, Los Angeles, 2,403 each.

Dorsey Details to be Continued Today

Los Angeles, Dec. 4—(AP)—The bailiff dusted off the witness chair today for more harrowing details anent the gallery galumphings of Bandleader Tommy Dorsey and Screen Hero Jon Hall.

While this was going on, defense counsel let it seep out that they planned a "surprise" (to whom?) motion soon for dismissal of assault charges against Dorsey, his wife and their friend, Allen Smiley.

First, however, the lawyers have a few more questions to ask another actor, Antonio Icaza, whose first name is really Ismael, and they want to hear the testimony of two physicians, Dr. Bernard Pearson and Dr. Marcus Crahan, who stuck Hall's nose together again after the fracas on the balcony of Dorsey's apartment Aug. 5.

Icaza, flown here from Panama to testify, has put the finger on Dorsey; he says the bandmaster banged Hall on the brow with a bottle. He says further that everybody had been hitting the bottle too—everyone but Icaza.

Pros' Eastern Race Confused; Fight Narrows

Chicago, Dec. 4—(AP)—All was confusion today in the Eastern division of the National Football league.

Only two games remained to be played in the circuit, but in those two games are three teams still with a chance of winning the Eastern division title and plucking that remunerative plum that is the inter-divisional playoff game.

The three are New York, Philadelphia, and Washington. The fourth team in the final league games is Cleveland—Buff Donnelli's unheralded batch of dynamite that may upset a down-to-the wire situation that already is confused.

The situation today was this:

New York beat Washington Sunday, 16-13, to take undisputed lead of the Eastern division. The same two teams meet again next Sunday. If Washington reverses the score, the two will be tied with seven victories, two losses and a tie each.

Other Possibilities

Meanwhile, if that situation occurs and Philadelphia beats Cleveland, then the Eagles will roost atop the Eastern division standings.

Further, if New York and Washington should tie, and Philadelphia wins, then the Giants and Eagles would be tied and a playoff would be necessary.

If the Giants win they will gain undisputed possession of the title.

They want the intersectional playoff Dec. 17, but the possibilities of an Eastern division tie, necessitating a playoff are manifold.

Philadelphia, party of the third part in the triangular title fight, was having little trouble romping over winless Brooklyn for a 34-0 victory.

In other games, the Chicago Bears crushed the hapless Pittsburgh-Chicago combination, 49-7, and the Detroit Lions had little trouble trampling the Boston Yanks, 38-7.

GLENN DAVIS, ARMY BACK, COPS SCORING HONORS

New York, Dec. 4—(AP)—Army's Glenn Davis won the 1944 college football high scoring championship with 120 points on 20 touchdowns, a final tabulation showed today. This compares to the 129 points Bob Steuber, of DePauw, tallied in winning high scoring honors a ear ago.

The final tabulation of the leaders, showing games, touchdowns, points after touchdown, field goals and total points, as compiled by The Associated Press:

Man Had Brick in His Stomach for 10 Years

One man recently stated that for 10 years he felt like he had a brick in his stomach. This feeling was due to the lump of undigested food he always had inside of him. He was weak, worn out, headachy, swollen with gas and terribly constipated. Recently he started taking ERB-HELP and says the feeling like a brick in his stomach disappeared the second day. Bowels are regular now, gas and headaches are gone and he feels like a new man.

ERB-HELP contains 12 Great Herbs; they cleanse bowels, clear gas from stomach, act on sluggish liver and kidneys. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering! Get ERB-HELP at any Drug Store here in Dixon.

Precious

Albuquerque, N. M., Dec. 1 (AP) R. P. Woodson, Jr., looked down, and there, right in the middle of an Albuquerque street, was a carton of cigarets.

Woodson has announced that whoever lost them must come around by tonight, or he'll give them to the U. S. O. In the meantime he's taking no chances. He has them locked in his safe.

OGLE COUNTY COURT HOUSE

An inventory has been filed in the estate of Mary E. Viale of Rochelle, by Charles P. Unger, executor of the estate.

A final report has been filed in the estate of Emma V. Haas, of Oregon, by Burton E. Haas, administrator de bonis non of said estate, and an order has been entered closing said estate and discharging the said administrator de bonis non.

An inheritance tax return has been filed in the estate of Samuel W. Coffman and hearing thereon set for January 2, 1945, at 10 a. m.

Libbie Minkler Burbank of Rochelle, in her will which was admitted to probate on Nov. 27, by County Judge Philip H. Nyc, granted specific bequests of furniture, oil paintings, jewelry, and clothing to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Burbank of Flint, Mich. the board of trustees of the Methodist church of Rochelle, Hanna Halsne of Rochelle, Ella Thompson of Rochelle, Genevieve Montgomery of DesMoines, Ia., Marie Dibble of Aurora, Elsie Dibble of Aurora, Charles P. Unger of Rochelle, Blanche and Lena Tilton of Rochelle, Mrs. Mary Scott of Rochelle and Mrs. E. G. Robinson of Pasadena, Calif.

She directed the executor to purchase perpetual care for the lot of M. M. Minkler in Lawnridge cemetery in Rochelle, and she further directed her executor to pay the board of trustees of the Methodist church of Rochelle $100, which sum is to be known as the "Burbank Music Fund" and is to be used for the purchase of music for the church choir.

The residue of her estate is to go to the board of trustees of the Methodist church of Rochelle, with the request that it be used for the purchase of seating equipment or the redecoration of the church.

Charles P. Unger of Rochelle was appointed executor in and by the will and qualified as such by filing bond and taking oath. Claim day has been set for the first Monday in January, 1945.

Marriage licenses have been issued by County Clerk Ada McGurk to Harry Bowers of Polo and Shirley E. Baldwin of Chicago, and to Richard Edwin Eads, of Polo and Villa Mae Russell of Milledgeville.

The fiscal year for Ogle county starts Monday, Dec. 4, at which time Homer D. Althouse and S. Donald Crowell who were re-elected to the offices of circuit clerk and state's attorney, respectively commence their new term of office, and Fred F. Horner of Rochelle, newly elected coroner, who succeeds Jesse C. Akins in his unexpired term of office, assumes office as the duly elected coroner of Ogle county.

Kansas (Ill.) Boy Attempts to Score 3rd Stock Success

Urbana, Ill., Dec. 4—(AP)—The London Economist's criticism of Kent Cooper's campaign for international freedom of access to news indicates that British news agencies fear competition without "special preferences.." says Frederick S. Siebert, director of the University of Illinois School of Journalism.

Siebert, in a statement issued here, replied to an article in the British weekly publication which said that the campaign by Cooper, executive director of the Associated Press, was an American "attempt to dominate" world news.

The Economist's opinion revealed "a fear that present British domination of world communication systems would be threatened if the "huge financial power of the American agencies' is permitted to operate on equal terms with other news agencies throughout the world," Siebert said. He added:

"The reasoning of the Economist writer indicates that the British news agencies are fearful that they will not be able to compete with American news agencies on a world-wide basis unless they are given special preferences, especially in access to communication facilities and in transmission costs.

Reuters Monopoly

"At the present time Reuters (English agency) enjoys a government-assisted monopoly in the gathering and transmission of foreign news.

"In recent years the dominant position of the British news has been shattered principally because the Associated Press refused to continue to be a party through exchange contracts to the 19th century system of dividing up the world. Lacking its contract agreements, Reuters retains as its only competitive advantage the special rates which it enjoys throughout the world-wide British communication system.

"The present campaign for freedom of international communication is directed toward obtaining an agreement which will guarantee equal access to communications in all countries, and would undoubtedly greatly enhance the effectiveness of world news coverage.

"That such an agreement might take away one of the competitive advantages of the British news agencies in no way affects the soundness of the demand of equality of treatment."

SOMETHING SERIOUS

Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—Everybody in the cafe laughed derisively when Ike Heimlich proclaimed: "Why, it's easy to get cigaret."

He walked to a wall where a dozen overcoats hung, delved into a pocket or two and brought out an unopened pack.

They didn't know it was Ike's own coat.

David Kinley, Ex-President Illinois University is Dead

Death Comes to Famed Educator Sunday at Age of 83 Years

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 4—(AP)—Dr. David Kinley, 83, president emeritus of the University of Illinois, died yesterday in the University hospital following a long illness.

President of the university from 1920 to 1930, Dr. Kinley was created by his associates with boosting the school to the front rank of American institutions of higher learning in both enrollment and physical plant.

During his ten-year tenure the student body rose from 8,200 to 12,700 and increased state appropriations were used to enlarge the plant by 300 per cent. Dr. Kinley won support for his building program by speaking throughout the state on the theme, "This Is Your University."

Coming to the university in 1893 as assistant professor of political economy and social science, he was successively dean of the college of literature and arts, dean of the graduate school, vice president and acting president before being named chief administrator in 1920.

Active in Many Lines

Kinley was active in both civic and international affairs, serving as chairman of the board of the First National Bank in Champaign and on the permanent board of the Pan-American Commission. In 1931 he toured the world in the interests of Chicago's Century of Progress Exposition.

Native of Scotland

Kinley was born Aug. 2, 1861, in Dundee, Scotland, and came to America with his father in 1872. He attended Yale, receiving an A. B. degree in 1881, and then became a high school principal at North Andover, Mass. In 1890 he went to Johns Hopkins university where he studied under Woodrow Wilson and under Richard Ely, economist, with whom he went to the University of Wisconsin to complete his work for a Ph. D. degree in 1893.

Made Dean in 1894

Soon after he went to the university his administrative ability was recognized and in 1894 he was made dean of the college of literature and arts. He held this post until 1906, during which time that college rose from second to first place in size among the divisions of the university.

In 1902 he organized a special group of courses for business training, and directed them until 1915 when they had become so important they were organized as the college of commerce and business administration.

His emphasis on scholarly research by the faculty and advanced students resulted in his appointment in 1906 as dean of the graduate school, a post he held until he became acting president in 1919.

Kinley was named vice president of the university in 1911. In that position it was he who was primarily responsible for the administration of the institution's war related activities between 1916 and 1919. When President Edmund James James' health failed in 1919, Kinley became acting president.

Developed Campus

Kinley was a stanch defender of educational opportunity for all. As enrollment in the university increased by leaps and bounds, he firmly opposed limitations against any who could meet the institution's entrance requirements, working instead to expand facilities to serve the people of Illinois.

The present appearance of the Illinois campus is a development of Kinley's administration. To replace a wide variety of architecture, the style of modified Georgian was selected for all new buildings.

Structures erected during his administration include the university library, new agriculture, commerce, architecture, McKinley hospital, Arthur Newell Talbot laboratory, and George Huff gymnasium. Memorial stadium was dedicated in 1921 and given to the university by alumni and friends.

Chicago Unit Grows

Although building expansion on the Chicago campus of the university at the Illinois medical center on the near west side did not get well under way until after Kinley left office, he is considered in large part responsible for laying the ground work which led to raising this part of the university to its present position. Through plans for cooperation with the state department of public welfare and development of standards for education and research in medicine, dentistry, and pharmacy, the growth of these parts of the university began during Kinley's administration. After he left office it reached full development in construction of several Chicago campus buildings, taking over from the state department of some of the hospitals and institutes, and affiliation of Presbyterian hospital.

After the World War, Kinley kept the university educationally on a conservative basis. To meet the needs of national expansion in business, industry, agriculture and the professions the university provided opportunity for specialization as well as broad liberal training.

Expands Church Movement

As enrollment increased, the church foundation movement, which had started at Illinois in 1913 and become nation-wide, expanded its services greatly on the campus where it had begun, encouraged by Kinley who was himself deeply religious.

Kinley gave his attention not only to the students, but also to their parents. The first collegiate dads' day of any institution was held at Illinois in 1920, and the first mothers' day in 1921. To better acquaint the parents with the university and its aims and problems a dad's association and a mothers' association were formed.

The Reserve Officers' Training corps established after the World war, took over the military instruction which had been required of all men students since the university opened in 1868. The R. O. T. C. found a strong champion in Kinley. Gen. John J. Pershing, visiting the campus as chief of staff after the war termed Illinois "the West Point of the West."

He was a delegate to the fourth International Conference of American States in Buenos Aires in 1910 and an American representative at the Centennial of Chilean Independence in the same year. In 1915 he was a delegate at the second Pan-American Scientific congress in Washington, D. C.

Honorary LL. D. degrees were conferred upon him by Illinois college in 1908, University of Wisconsin in 1918, University of Nebraska 1921, and Yale in 1924.

In 1897 he married Kate Ruth Neal who died in 1931 in Hongkong while they were on a trip around the world in the interest of the Chicago Century of Progress exposition. Two daughters survive, Mrs. Joan R. Gregg, New York, and Mrs. Harriet Kinley Brooks, Chicago.

Funeral Wednesday

Dr. Kinley had been in retirement since 1930 as president emeritus of the university. He maintained his residence in Urbana and until his recent illness was seen almost daily on the campus. One of his last public appearances was in March, 1944, when he spoke at a convocation marking the university's diamond anniversary.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. in Smith Memorial hall on the university campus, followed by burial in Roselawn cemetery, Urbana. Classes will be dismissed for the day at 2 p. m. and all university offices will be closed while the funeral is in progress, it was announced.

Leaves from an AP War Correspondent's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

American First Army Headquarters, Nov. 17 (Delayed)—(AP)—How do American and British soldiers measure up in battle?

William Smith White, veteran Associated Press writer is in a good position to judge. Since the invasion of France, "Bill" has been war correspondent with the First Canadian army, the Second British Army and the First U. S. Army. He enlisted himself earlier in the war, but a critical illness prevented completion of his officers' training course and he received a medical discharge.

I asked Bill what he thought of Johnny Doughboy and Tommy Atkins, and how each stacked up in combat. This is his reply:

"Nobody who has been with allied troops very much would care to generalize by saying that troops of such and such a nation were best.

"From my experience with both British and American armies I should put it about like this:

"If I were a commander and was told that I must take a ridge ahead of me in 18 hours, even though by every normal rule it was a 24-hour job at the very best, I would prefer American infantry, because they have less reverence for the book in military matters. And, very likely, once it had been explained why that ridge must be taken in 18 hours, however impossible it seemed, they would go ahead and take it. The qualification 'once it had been explained' is vital....you have to explain the why of it to get them to perform things that aren't really possible by normal reckoning.

"But if again I were a commander and I was ordered to hold a position—any position, however hopeless and however seemingly pointless—through spring and summer and fall and winter if need be, I'd take the British Tommy.

"He is the world's most persistent soldier, the world's most patient and—under his mild-mannered bearing—he's the world's most cheerful. It's not that he lacks an offensive spirit—it's simply that his greatest role in all history has been defensive—that is, holding on, in every continent and sea, to something that England must have.

"The American is not patient enough to go on performing a seemingly hopeless and seemingly unimportant fighting job. The Tommy is much more philosophical. His morale for the long pull is, I think the best in the world.

"So I should say that John Doughboy and Tommy Atkins are perfectly complimentary. A A A I believe Tommy is a little more expert as a soldier—which of course is only natural, for on the average he has been at it far longer.

"So much for the infantry. In the more specialized arms, and particularly in armor, I believe the American soldier is well along toward becoming the ablest in the world. This is so because his mechanical savvy—his know-how—is far higher than any other soldiers. He might not always fight a tank better than the British soldier but he will always maintain it better and longer and keep it rolling over small mechanical disasters that would put the British tank back to rear ordnance."

Day By Day On the Air

C. E. BUTTERFIELD

(Central War Time)

New York, Dec. 1—(AP)—The home radio set, struggling along these war days the best it can, apparently must keep right on doing so for some time to come. Primarily, it's the tube replacement question due to concentration on military manufacture.

L. J. Chatten, director of the War Production Board's radio and radar division, has informed the Radio Manufacturers' Association that the program of making available 18,000,000 civilian replacement tubes this year will not be met. Before the war civilian tube requirements ran 30,000,000 annually, or nearly double the present supply.

"Tubes are going to be tight for a long time to come", he declared, pointing out that the rate of issue of military tubes for the next five months is being considerably increased.

Meanwhile, the industry is being asked to increase military radio-radar production 18 per cent above the present level by next March.

FRONTIER ON RHINE?

London, Dec. 1 (AP) The Paris radio said today that Gen. DeGaulle, now in Moscow is believed to be discussing with Premier Stalin France's desire for a frontier on the Rhine after the war.

It's safe to assume, the broadcast added, that Stalin will not oppose this desire.

ASKED FOR IT

Rock Island, Ill. (AP) The 1944 cigaret shortage ties nicely with Bruce M. Waddell's smoking habits. Since 1911 he's been using tobacco on alternate years. He abstains completely one year, smokes at a marked pace the next. This year he has spoken none. Next year he'll light up again if he can lay in a supply.

Figures Senators Will Fight Hard to Retain "Pie"

Washington, Dec. 4—(AP)—The senate has a piece of pie, all its own. Exclusive rights in settling treaties. The house wants a share. Don't bet it will get it.

The senate has had those rights about 150 years. They're in the Constitution. The house has no treaty say-so at all.

A treaty is an agreement between this country and one or more foreign nations. It has the effect of law. It is a national obligation.

The framers of the Constitution thought the senate was the place to work out treaties—particularly if done in secret—because of its small size. It had only 26 members then. It has 96 now.

But the Constitution also says: No treaty can be approved unless two-thirds of the senators present at voting time say "yes." This means that one-third of the senators, plus one, can veto a treaty.

It also means: A minority of the senate through veto power can control our foreign policy.

Minority Powerful

Most recent examples of the senate's minority veto power: It blocked our participation in the World Court and League of Nations.

Our participation in the United Nations Council after this war—already being prepared for—will have to be done with the approval of congress. It will be a solemn action.

Our membership in the organization will pledge us to go to war against aggressors if necessary to preserve world peace. So, since congress will have to have a voice in our war-making, it will have to approve our joining an organization that may lead us into war.

Yet a senate minority could hamstring our part in the United Nations program. That is a main reason for the present agitation to amend the Constitution so treaties can be ratified by a simple majority of both houses.

But, ironically enough, a proposal to amend the Constitution needs a two-thirds vote in both house and senate before going out to the states for three-fourths of them to approve.

The house seems sure to give its two-thirds approval. The senate doesn't. It would be voting away its most special power.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"God the Only Cause and Creator" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, December 3.

The Golden Text was, "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth" (Genesis 1: 1).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "O Lord, how manifold are thy works! In wisdom hast thou made them all: the earth is full of thy riches . . . Thou sendest forth thy spirit, they are created: and thou renewest the face of the earth. The glory of the Lord shall endure forever: the Lord shall rejoice in his works" (Ps. 104: 24, 30, 31).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The creative Principle — Life, Truth, and Love — is God. The universe reflects God. There is but one creator and one creation . . . The divine Principle, or Spirit, comprehends and expresses all, and all must therefore be as perfect as the divine Principle is perfect. . . . Deity was satisfied with His work. How could He be otherwise, since the spiritual creation was the outgrowth, the emanation, of His infinite self-containment and immortal wisdom." (pp. 502, 515).

Dr. D. E. James Attends Conference of Flight Surgeons in N. Jersey

The current issue of the Journal of the American Medial Association publishes a picture of a conference of air flight surgeons held recently at Atlantic City, N. J., which includes an excellent likeness of Major D. E. James of Belvidere, son of Mr. and Mrs. William James of Dixon. The conference included top flight air surgeons from all fighting theaters. Dr. James being from the China-Burma-India theater.

The officers assumed duties of flight surgeons consultant in army general and service forces regional hospitals all over the country. Especially selected by the chief of the Professional Services Division, they will confer with hospital authorities on aviation medical matters and visit air forces patients and discuss individual problems relative to transfer to AAF medical facilities or to duty on a flying status in the Air Forces through the PDC.

FORMER COLLIER EXECUTIVE GETS 20 MONTH TERM

Leonard Wallace Winton, 42, of New York, former $81,000 a year sales manager for the P. F. Collier & Sons Publishing company, yesterday was sentenced to serve 20 months in prison by Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe on his plea of guilty to charges of violating the stolen property act.

Winton was accused of scattering from Seattle to New York $15,000 worth of forced pay checks, which he had taken from a construction firm by whom he was employed. Asst. United States Atty. Bernard Sokol told the court that Winton squandered his huge earnings from the publishing firm as well as much of that obtained through the pay checks on horse races.

When Winton entered his guilty plea recently, he requested probation. This was refused yesterday by Judge Igoe, who told him that an investigation did not show he was entitled to probation.

Those of you on our waiting list for new telephones probably had your hopes raised considerably by the recent news item shown above. Unfortunately, the quantity of telephones released was small compared with the total number needed throughout the country.
The tremendous quantities of communications material required by our armed forces has drastically reduced reserves of telephone equipment for farm and city. If your name is on our waiting list for telephone installations, you can be sure your needs will be handled as soon as new equipment is released to us.
